POSTVENTION IS PREVENTION

The risk of suicide increases after a death by suicide. For each documented death by suicide, there is an estimate of 25 suicide attempts. This is why it is so important to provide support after there has been a death by suicide. The support after a death by suicide, or postvention, includes activities that reduces the risk and promotes healing for the family, friends and community after a suicide.

If you or someone you know have been affected by a death by suicide or want to learn more about local resources and information, please visit www.guideinc.org/PreventSuicide.

Suicide prevention trainings are designed to teach individuals the warning signs of suicide and how to respond in a crisis situation.

GUIDE offers the following trainings:

YOUTH MENTAL HEALTH
FIRST AID®

A 6.5-hour course that teaches how to help youth who may be experiencing a mental health or substance use challenge.

A 1.5-hour course to train in the 3 simple steps – Question, Persuade, Refer – to help save a life from suicide.

The GUIDE Advisory Board's Suicide Prevention Workgroup seeks to reduce the stigma surrounding seeking help for mental health challenges and work together to prevent suicide.
